To Whom It May Concern:

In June of 2008 I purchased a 2006 Saratoga TC with the help of John Bartelt.

I contacted John weeks prior to my purchase while trying to find a buyer for my previous aircraft, a 1981 Saratoga HP.

Upon talking with John I could tell that not only was he knowledgeable on airplanes but especially the Saratoga. In addition, he was also knowledgeable of every aspect of both the selling and purchasing process.

Prior to my contacting John I had not only been trying to sell my current owned Saratoga, but also had been negotiating a possible trade toward a 2006 Saratoga TC that a Piper dealer had. After multiple attempts to trade with the Piper dealer, I was still unsuccessful.

I asked John if he could assist me in the negotiations through his relationship with not only the Piper dealer that I had contacted, but also with any other dealer that might have a late model TC.

John worked diligently through phone calls and e-mails to help me sell my aircraft plus to find me the "best value" TC on the market. John called and/or e-mailed me daily to let me know of what he had found and what was being negotiated. Always getting my approval prior to making an offer and pointing out complete details of the aircraft he had found.

Ultimately, John successfully negotiated a transaction on the '06 Saratoga TC that I own today. I actually like the aircraft more than the original one that I had attempted to negotiate for and was at a lesser trade difference and better value than the original.

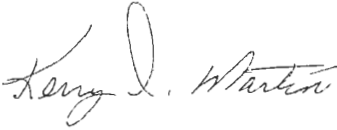

John's fee for helping me with my purchase was actually less than I had anticipated and other than our conversation about his fee early on, he never once mentioned his commission until the day of my sell/purchase transaction.

John Bartelt made my first aircraft trade as simple and stress free as possible with the end resulting in me knowing that I made the best deal possible and purchased an awesome airplane.

John has also been very helpful after my transaction by giving me valuable service and maintenance advice when I needed it.

I would recommend John Bartelt to anyone who is in the market to buy or sell an aircraft.

Sincerely,
